

High in the Alleghenies: A Photo Presentation of Mountain Railroading by Frederick J. Ripley

Morgantown History Museum

175 Kirk Street

Morgantown, West Virginia 26505

Saturday, February 9, from 2:00 to 4:00 PM

Free and open to the public!

Don't miss this engaging presentation at the Morgantown History Museum, featuring dramatic photography by Frederick J. Ripley. Dr. Ripley will project images and discuss two of his favorite eastern mountain railroads, the former Baltimore & Ohio in Maryland and Pennsylvania, and the former Chesapeake & Ohio in West Virginia. There will be plenty of time for discussion, and some light refreshments at the end. Through February 22, a large selection of the photographer's framed 20" x 30" enlargements are on display at Arts Monongahela at 201 High Street (open Tuesdays - Fridays, 10:00 AM to 4:00 PM). Both the exhibit and this presentation offer a wonderful opportunity to enjoy captivating images and fascinating history!
